

Module 5: The Literary Response to the Changing World

Topic 4 Content: Transitions

Introduction

To ensure coherence and flow in your paper, you should not only include transitions between paragraphs but also transitions between sentences. Transitional words and phrases help to make your ideas organized and clear to the reader. Take a moment to look at common transitional words and phrases that can link sentences and paragraphs. Each of the notes in this interactivity lists one of the ways in which information or ideas can be related. Click each note on the bulletin board to view the corresponding transitional words and phrases.

Contrast

The image shows a digital whiteboard interface. At the top, a dark grey header contains the word "Transitions" in white. Below this, the main area has a light orange background. In the top-left corner of this area, the word "Contrast" is written in black. In the center, the following words are listed vertically: "although", "but", "however", and "yet". In the bottom-right corner of the whiteboard area, there is a small red "X" icon.
