Topic 5 Content: Reflecting on the Writing Process

Reflecting on the Writing Process

Take a moment to review some questions that you can ask yourself during the reflecting step of the writing process.

- Did you like the topic? Why or why not?
- What did you struggle with as you completed your research?
- What part of the research process was easiest for you?
- Did you learn anything new about using citations? Is there anything you still need to learn?
- Did you learn anything new about using MLA or APA format? Is there anything you still need to learn?
- What part of the writing process gave you the most trouble?
- What part of the writing process was the easiest for you?
- What did you think about peer reviewing with a classmate? Was it more of a help or a hindrance? Why?
- What did you like or dislike about the editing process?
- If you had to do this assignment again, what would you do the same, and why?
- If you had to do this assignment again, what would you do differently, and why?
- What about your paper makes you extremely proud?
- What grade do you feel your paper merits, and why?
- What other thoughts, questions, or feelings do you have about writing this research paper?
