

Module 4: Do Not End Up in the Junkyard

Avoiding Harmful Substances

Topic 1 Content: Stages of Alcoholism

Introduction

The screenshot shows a web application window titled "Stages of Alcoholism". On the left side, there are three red, rounded rectangular tabs stacked vertically. The top tab is labeled "Stage One: Abuse", the middle tab is "Stage Two: Dependence", and the bottom tab is "Stage Three: Addiction". The main content area on the right is titled "Introduction" and contains the following text: "There are three stages of alcoholism. Depending on the person, these stages can advance quickly or take a long period of time. The traits for each stage may differ for each person dealing with alcoholism. The traits listed may vary for each individual." Below this text, there is a red instruction: "Click on each tab to learn about each stage of alcoholism." The window has a standard OS-style title bar with navigation buttons on the right.

There are three stages of alcoholism. Depending on the person, these stages can advance quickly or take a long period of time. The traits for each stage may differ for each person dealing with alcoholism.

Click on each tab to learn about the stages of alcoholism.

Module 4: Do Not End Up in the Junkyard

Avoiding Harmful Substances

Topic 1 Content: Stages of Alcoholism

Stage One: Abuse

Stages of Alcoholism

Stage One: Abuse

- Drinking becomes less social and is necessary to manage stress.
- Physical and psychological dependence develops.
- The person is regularly intoxicated.
- Memory loss and blackouts are frequent.
- The drinker tries to rationalize his or her drinking behavior.

- Drinking becomes less social and is necessary to manage stress.
- Physical and psychological dependence develops.
- The person is regularly intoxicated.
- Memory loss and blackouts are frequent.
- The drinker tries to rationalize his or her drinking behavior.

Module 4: Do Not End Up in the Junkyard

Avoiding Harmful Substances

Topic 1 Content: Stages of Alcoholism

Stage Two: Dependence

Stages of Alcoholism

Stage One: Abuse

Stage Two: Dependence

Stage Three: Addiction

Stage Two: Dependence

- The person is physically dependent and cannot stop drinking.
- He or she may drink alone and probably earlier in the day.
- The person becomes defensive and tries to hide the problem.
- Job, school, and home duties are not taken care of. (Some alcoholics, however, do take care of their daily responsibilities. They are called functioning alcoholics.)

- The person is physically dependent and cannot stop drinking.
- He or she may drink alone and probably earlier in the day.
- The person becomes defensive and tries to hide the problem.
- Job, school, and home duties are not taken care of. (Some alcoholics, however, do take care of their daily responsibilities. They are called functioning alcoholics.)

Module 4: Do Not End Up in the Junkyard

Avoiding Harmful Substances

Topic 1 Content: Stages of Alcoholism

Stage Three: Addiction

The screenshot shows a presentation window titled "Stages of Alcoholism" with navigation controls in the top right. On the left, there is a vertical list of three stages: "Stage One: Abuse" (red), "Stage Two: Dependence" (red), and "Stage Three: Addiction" (green). The main content area on the right is titled "Stage Three: Addiction" and contains a bulleted list of characteristics.

Stages of Alcoholism

Stage One: Abuse

Stage Two: Dependence

Stage Three: Addiction

Stage Three: Addiction

- Drinking becomes the MOST important thing. Every part of the alcoholic's life revolves around drinking.
- Drinking is uncontrollable and is constant.
- The drinker may become malnourished because the person does not care about nutrition.
- People can never be cured of alcoholism once they are addicted. A treatment program is needed to help control and stop drinking.

- Drinking becomes the MOST important thing. Every part of the alcoholic's life revolves around drinking.
- Drinking is uncontrollable and is constant.
- Drinkers may become malnourished because they do not care about nutrition.
- People can never be cured of alcoholism once they are addicted. A treatment program is needed to help control and stop drinking.